CDI Journal – July/August 2020
Continuing education information

The CDI Journal offers CE credits towards the ACDIS CCDS certification!

To obtain your CCDS continuing education credits, you must successfully complete the online continuing education quiz by going to:

https://app.keysurvey.com/f/41503119/c105/?LQID=1&
Your certificate will be automatically emailed to you upon successful completion of the quiz.

Many facilities now have very strict email policies that often mistake our automated certificate emails for spam and block them. We suggest that you use a personal email address when completing your quiz and check your junk/spam folder if you do not see the certificate email soon after completion.

Please note: The expiration date for this activity is August 31st, 2021. You must complete your online quiz by this date in order to receive continuing education credits.

If you have questions regarding this quiz, please contact HCPro's customer service department at 877/727-1728 for further assistance.

Association of Clinical Documentation Integrity Specialists (ACDIS)
This program has been approved for 1 continuing education unit towards fulfilling the requirements of the Certified Clinical Documentation Specialist (CCDS) certification, offered as a service of the Association of Clinical Documentation Integrity Specialists (ACDIS).